Vandals desecrate Elmwood Cemetery

ONE OF NINE--This family marker was vandalized.

Grayling City Police officers were called to Elmwood Cemetery on the morning of Wednesday, June 14, after work crews discovered what appeared to be a spree of vandalism.

After investigation it was determined that at least nine headstones had been turned over and two others had been spray painted with obscene graffiti.

According to Grayling City Police Chief Peter Stephan, it was also determined that two nearby houses had been sprayed.

"Some of these kids have a warped sense of entertainment," Stephan said.

He said the investigation was enhanced when police received an anonymous tip, which led to the apprehension of one teen female, who subsequently confessed to turning over the headstones.

He also said there are at least two other suspects under investigation.

"This is the second year we've had serious vandalism at the cemetery," Stephan said. "To the extent the law will allow, we want to push this, but that will be up to the prosecutor.

"There are several charges we could ask for including malicious destruction of property or felonious grave desecration," he added.

Derek McEvers, owner of the Sorenson Funeral Home, said every time this happens, it costs owners of the stones a lot of money to have them uprighted and secured. He said one local family has had its marker tipped over twice just this year.

According to Crawford County Probate Judge John Hunter, the penalty for juvenile vandalism can range from a warning to restitution, community service, victims service work, short term detention, probation and even placement out of the home.

"I haven't received any petitions in this case," Hunter said, "but, if a general violation of state or local ordinances takes place, I have jurisdiction over the child. The treatment is up to me."

It's a whopper!

A GREAT FISH STORY--Little Christine Makarewicz, age 4, and her father Tom, of Carsonville, spent a portion of their vacation recently at the Grayling Fish Hatchery. After feeding the fish, Christine tied into this 14-inch trout, and with a little help from Dad, landed her dinner.

Industrial park still on airport agenda

By Terry Wright
News Editor

When county voters turned down a January 1995 request for a one-half mill tax levy to develop an air-industrial park complex at the Grayling Army Airfield, local officials regrouped to find other alternatives to complete the project and could now be on the verge of success.

According to David Frederick, director of the Crawford County Transportation Authority, the taxes that would have been collected were to be used for development if, and only if, a portion of the airport property could be obtained from the military. The plan was to have an industrial fund in place before approaching the owners, as a show of the importance and seriousness of the project to the local area.

At that time, Frederick said, "This type of project is one of the few things a local community can do that will have a major effect on its economic future. This project should, if successfully completed, result in 400 new jobs over the next decade. Four hundred new light-industrial jobs will result in a $10 million increase in payrolls within the region."

"If you enhance economic development, it has a carry-over effect on many other community issues," he added.

At 720 acres, the Grayling Army

Airfield includes several areas not currently being used, large enough for an industrial park. Some of the land is already connected to water, sewer and electric utilities.

Today, almost six months after the failed election, Frederick and a group of local industrialists, are asking local government entities to adopt a resolution that the State of Michigan support the return of the Grayling Army Airfield to the control of local government.

At their most recent meetings, the Crawford County board of Commissioners and the Grayling City Council passed the resolution.

Subsequently, at a Friday, June 17 meeting between industrial proponents and the Michigan National Guard, the airport property was the number one topic of discussion.

"It was a very cordial and productive meeting," said commission chairman, Dennis Long. "They requested a written proposal of acreage needed to achieve our goals. It would appear that a goal will soon be reached that will benefit both the industrial needs of the community and the needs of the Michigan National Guard."

Camp Grayling Commanding Officer, Col. Joseph LaGrow agreed, saying, "I'm very optimistic that an agreement can be reached. The county has been very good to us and we want to help them if we can."

Michigan tests innovative school-to-work program

By Linda Sherwood
Staff Writer

Schools have been teaching the "three R's," reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic, for decades, but are they teaching students what future employers want them to know?

Although the three R's are important to employers, what employers really want students to learn is a positive attitude, a good work ethic and how to manage resources such as time and money. How can students learn about developing a positive work ethic sitting in social studies class, English, math or science? That's exactly the question 42 teachers in the COOR (Crawford, Otsego, Oscoda and Roscommon counties) intermediate school district are answering this summer.

Michigan is one of eight states currently testing a federally-based pilot program "School-To-Work." Within the state there are 44 agencies developing programs to help students learn what employers want them to know.

The School-To-Work program is a partnership between business and industry and the education system. Businesses sign an agreement with COOR to help provide work-based activities for students. There are over 10 things that a business can agree to do to help provide a work-based activity ranging from speaking to a class or allowing a student or students to experience the work environment firsthand.

"We can't duplicate Weyerhaeuser in the high school," said Dick Coulter, Career and Technical Education Director. Currently, COOR has signed agreements with about 40 businesses, but they hope to sign up hundreds for the program.

If a teacher wants to have a speaker come into the classroom, the list of businesses who have already agreed to present to schools is ready and waiting. If a student is interested in a certain career field, a choice of businesses who have agreed to allow a student follow them around for a day is already in place. Businesses can tell teachers if the school-based activities actually reflect real-life situations. Businesses also have a source of interested, motivated students for internship possibilities.

"We need more business people," said Coulter. "The enthusiasm for the program has been fantastic." Coulter predicts that the School-To-Work program will keep blossoming and become a tremendous value to the schools and businesses.

This isn't something that will take place three or four years down the road.

Wildfire continues to burn

A forest fire on Saturday, June 17, burned 129 acres in the area of Mason Tract on the east side of the South Branch of the AuSable River in South Branch Township.

The fire, which started about 3:20 p.m., was caused by a campfire according to DNR Fire Division Supervisor Duane Brooks. The people who started the campfire abandoned the scene before firefighters arrived. The fire was brought under control that night, but crews were still working on the area at press time Tuesday, June 20, due to smoldering and fire in the area, according to a Department of Natural Resources fire command official.

The fire was in a wilderness area and the only structural loss was an outhouse. DNR fire units, the South Branch Fire Department, conservation officers and the Crawford County Sheriff Department responded to the forest fire.

Local man wins spot on 'Megabucks Giveaway'

Butch and Mary Brown of Grayling, have turned a losing situation into an opportunity to become winners in a very big way by simply mailing their losing instant lottery tickets in for a second chance.

On Thursday, June 22, at 7:30 p.m. Butch will appear on the Michigan State Lottery Megabucks Giveaway program with a good chance of bringing home $50,000. The program is aired locally on TV 29-8, the ABC network affiliate in Traverse City.

Even if he doesn't win the $50,000 grand prize, Brown is assured of winning at least several hundred dollars, enough to make it a memorable experience.

The program is filmed live in Detroit. Butch and Mary will be leaving for Detroit on Wednesday.

And what will they do with the money if they come home $50,000 richer? "What Butch would do and what I would do are two different things," Mary said. "We would probably put in a new furnace. The rest would go towards kids' education. We have four kids in college."

Solid waste committee meeting cancelled

A scheduled meeting of the Crawford County Solid Waste Planning Committee originally set for 7 p.m. on Wednesday, June 21, at the Grayling City Building, has been cancelled.

The cancellation came at the request of Lovells Township, which has asked for at least a 30-day extension to prepare its proposal of an amendment to the county's solid waste plan.

According to Lovells Township Supervisor Fred Schaibly, the delay was requested so the township could consult with its attorney concerning the legalities of stipulations within the proposed amendment.

Training for emergency contamination situations

PRACTICING OIL SPILL CLEANUP PROCEDURES--Employees of Shell Pipe Line Corporation recently went through a "hands on" training simulation program to learn how to contain an oil spill. The training took place on the upper AuSable River near Pollock Bridge.

At right, workers are shown stretching a floating oil capturing device across the river, while another crew, further downstream, duplicated the task. In practice, any oil not contained in the first device, could be captured in the second, allowing special pumping trucks to remove the contamination.

CEAAG reports results of citizen survey

The Citizens for Environmental Awareness and Accountability in Government (CEAAG), group has released the results of a random sampling of Crawford County opinions.

"We're not calling it a scientific study, but we did not stack them to agree with our sentiments," said CEAAG member Joe Callewaert.

Callewaert said more than 600 questionnaires were mailed to Crawford County residences, in every township and the City of Grayling, and more than one in six were returned.

"Since most of those issues remain unresolved, this group believes that all 11 questions are valid and remain useful today," Callewaert said.

Callewaert said the questionnaires were designed to poll public opinion on county-wide issues of 1994 as seen by members of CEAAG, and he said the information in each question came as a result of careful study of the minutes of the county board of commissioners meetings for that year.

The questions and responses were reported as follows:

Question #1 - "Are you in favor of recycling trash here in Crawford County?" Yes, 66% — No, 21% — Not sure, 13%.

Question #2 - "Should the city, township or county boards approve 23 counties to use the county landfill?" Yes, 2% — No, 95% — Not sure, 3%.

Question #3 - "Should CESW be allowed to build a 15 story mountain of trash in Crawford County?" Yes, 1% — No, 92% — Not sure, 7%.

Question #4 - "Do you believe the DNR is protecting us from pollution at the landfill?" Yes, 4% — No, 73% —

Not sure, 23%.

Question #5 - "Should we have a vote on the spending of the $1 million from the sale of the landfill?" Yes, 89% — No, 3% — Not sure, 8%.

Question #6 - "Do you believe we need a 62-65 bed facility to house out-of-county prisoners?" Yes, 9% — No, 84% — Not sure, 7%.

Question #7 - "Should we have a vote on spending $2 million or $3 million on the jail?" Yes, 92% — No, 4% — Not sure, 4%.

Question #8 - "Should we have a vote on the proposed $600,000 bond issue that we must repay?" Yes, 89% — No, 3% — Not sure, 8%.

Question #9 - "Should we have a right to vote on all major issues involving your tax dollars?" Yes, 95% — No, 2% — Not sure, 3%.

Question #10 - "Do you believe that the county board of commissioners are representing you properly?" Yes, 3% — No, 72% — Not sure, 25%.

Question #11 - "Do you think the county prosecutor, his assistant and sheriff should receive 'special bonuses'?" Yes, 3% — No, 87% — Not sure, 10%.

Three receive training, jobs through Consortium program

The Northeast Michigan Consortium is pleased to announce the completion of three training candidates with the Economic Dislocation Workers Adjustment Assistance Act (E.D.W.A.A.) Program. E.D.W.A.A. provides for the re-training of dislocated workers through on-the-job training, vocational training, or college certificates and degrees.

The newest member of the Grayling City Police Department, Darrell Earls, is a 1994 graduate of Kirtland Community College, and a recipient of E.D.W.A.A. funding. Earls had his tuition, books, and fees paid through the program and was also eligible for transportation and day-care reimbursement. Earls graduated Magna Cum Laude with a criminal justice degree. Eileen Couchman, case manager for Northeast Michigan Consortium stated, "I'm especially pleased that Darrell was hired here in our community. When training enables a person to serve the community it is all the more gratifying."

Jim Adams and Art Lozon, both of Grayling, are recent graduates of Eaton Roadranger Training Institute in Kalamazoo. The two received Commercial Drivers Class A Training certificates. The transportation certificate program is designed to prepare students for entry-level positions as over-the-road professional tractor/trailer drivers in intrastate and interstate commerce, either as a fleet driver for freight companies or an independent owner/operator. Students complete 31.3 credit hours in required and elective courses.

Following completion of the program, both Lozon and Adams were hired by Tandem Trucking of Michigan City, IN. Couchman stated that the certificate training "provides excellent training in a short period of time and the students are ready to go to work in a field that has a high placement rate and competitive wages."

The Northeast Michigan Consortium offers training programs based on eligibility for dislocated workers, older workers, and low-income workers. If you are interested in the Consortium's training programs you may contact them at (517) 348-8709 for application information.

State looking for knowledgeable retirees

The State of Michigan is looking for retirees in northern Michigan who are engineers, scientists or others with manufacturing plant experience to tackle waste reduction for area industries.

Interviews with retirees interested in such opportunities are set for June 22-23 in the Grayling area. An interview for one of those days can be made by calling (517) 335-0081.

"We have had excellent success with a pilot program which has proved that retirees with the right know-how can make a real difference for businesses taking a closer look at their waste reduction," said Julie Feldpausch, the project's coordinator.

"The program connects retirees with businesses that really need the confidential perspective of experienced professionals."

Under a program called Retired Engineer Technical Assistance Project (RETAP), about 50 Michigan companies were helped to cut waste last year.

While the RETAP members are paid for their time and effort, the businesses receive the help for nothing, a fact which many RETAPers say makes the program enticing for business people.

Not only do businesses get the assessments from experts, many of whom have 30 or more years in manufacturing operations, but those businesses also find the RETAPers suggestions help the bottom line by saving materials or operations costs.

River House Shelter takes on new challenges

Several years ago, River House launched its Legal Advocacy Project to better serve victims in the 4-county area of Crawford, Ogemaw, Oscoda and Roscommon.

The cornerstone of this project was the structuring of Task Forces Against Domestic Violence in each county consisting of police, prosecutors, judges, probation officers and River House staff. Roscommon served as the model and now have moved into Crawford and Oscoda to begin to coordinate a task force in Ogemaw this summer.

The goal of this Legal Advocacy Project is to protect victims and assure the upholding of victims' rights. Another key aspect of this project is the rehabilitation of abusers.

The Alternatives to Abuse Program (ATAP), a privately-supported project, has been in operation for five months. The program goal is to teach men who batter alternative ways of behaving.

The Alternative to Abuse Program begins with an assessment session followed by an orientation session. After orientation, the client starts classes. There are eight themes, with three weeks devoted to each one.

The themes are explored over a 24-week period and include: Nonviolence, nonthreatening behavior, respect, support and trust, accountability and honesty, sexual respect, partnership, and negotiation and fairness. Fees for the program are charged on a sliding scale according to income.

Since the program began last February, it has grown from six to 18 members, with more being referred weekly by the courts, as well as some voluntary participation. The program, which was piloted in Roscommon County, is co-facilitated by Ruth Strey and Jim Sanborn, who were trained in Duluth's Domestic Abuse Intervention Project. It is set up so that men may enter at any point and still receive maximum benefit from the classes. The classes are often difficult as the members grapple with making changes in their beliefs and life styles.

This program is for men, but it will ultimately benefit the women and children of the area who are the victims of domestic violence. This is a very positive, hopeful program for the counties, and could not have been initiated without the cooperation of Judge Walsh, 83rd District Court, Dan Sutton, Roscommon County Prosecutor, Mary Beebe, probation department, and Ruth Strey and Ferne Farber of River House Shelter. The program is co-sponsored by River House Shelter and the Task Forces Against Domestic Violence in Roscommon and Crawford counties.

Anyone interested in additional information about the Alternatives to Abuse Program may contact Ruth Strey at River House Shelter (517) 348-3169 during business hours.

Victims seeking legal or other assistance can contact River House, 24 hours a day by calling collect to (517) 348-8972.

New road designation program secures Michigan's heritage

Recently, the Michigan Department of Transportation (M·DOT) announced the beginning of Michigan's Heritage Route Program. The Heritage Routes are designed to help communities maintain their identity by preserving the historic, natural beauty and recreational value of Michigan's state highways. State highways include all "I," "US" or "M" designated routes.

"Transportation is more than just roadways, bridges, railways, or airways... it encompasses the whole traveling experience. Transportation include the environmental and historic resources along each route that help communities grow and maintain their unique qualities," said State Transportation Director Pat Nowak.

This unique, grass-roots initiative will offer many communities the opportunity to form new partnerships locally and at the state level. The Heritage Routes application process is expected to foster cooperation among local residents, governmental officials, landowners and constituent groups to preserve Michigan's unique scenic, historic and recreational values. Once selected, communities may enhance their role in Michigan's growing tourism industry through route promotion.

Signs will be installed to identify the designation of Heritage Routes linking various parts of the state, based on their role in Michigan's culture. Future state maps will also identify the various Heritage Routes.

Program guidelines and applications are available to communities and residents by contacting Mike Saunders, manager, Michigan Heritage Routes Program, at M·DOT, (517) 373-0026.

Senate committee to study state land policies

A senate subcommittee will study the policies regarding state land ownership and acquisition under a resolution introduced by state Senator George McManus, R-Traverse City.

"Several substantive questions and concerns regarding state land have been raised over the years so it's important that we look at all of the issues surrounding state land acquisition and ownership," McManus said.

The committee will examine how state land acquisition and ownership affects local communities. State land ventures have been known to affect local property tax bases, opportunities in land development and private and public access issues.

Among other things, the committee will look at how land acquisition decisions are made, the level of local input, what percentage of land is owned by the state, federal, and local governments and what practices other states follow.

Much of the land acquired by the state is purchased through the Natural Resources Trust Fund, primarily for recreation and conservation purposes. However, many other state departments, such as the Department of Management and Budget, acquire land for various other reasons.

Members of the subcommittee include: Senator George McManus, Senator Matt Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion, Senator Don Kovisto, D-Ironwood. The subcommittee will hold a series of statewide hearings on the subject across the state beginning in September.

"This study will provide vital input for the legislature to use in shaping a broad range of state ownership policies for the future," McManus said.

1995 Michigan bear hunt applications due June 30

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reminds potential applicants that the deadline to apply for a 1995 Michigan bear harvest license is June 30.

This year, all hunters will apply for a bear hunting license through the DNR's new computerized Retail Sales System. The mail-in application form will no longer be used. Hunters can apply at any DNR district and regional office, as well as any one of 1,500 hunting and fishing license agents throughout the state.

The license fee must be paid at the time of application. The fee for a regular resident harvest license is $14.85. There is no fee for Senior Hunt and Comprehensive Lifetime license holders. Nonresidents may contact the DNR License Control Section in Lansing at 517-373-1206 to apply and pay a $150.85 license fee. Applicants for any of the above types of licenses may apply as an individual or with a partner.

The 1995 bear season will include the following hunt periods: Sept. 10-Oct. 21 and Sept. 15-Oct. 26 in the Upper Peninsula's Amasa, Baraga, Bergland, Carney, Gwinn, and Newberry units; Sept. 10-Sept. 16 on Drummond Island; and Sept. 22-Sept.

28 in the northern Lower Peninsula's Red Oak Bear Management Unit. There is an additional hunt period in the Red Oak Unit Oct. 6-Oct. 12 for bow and arrow only.

This year, an experimental third hunt period, Sept. 25 through Oct. 26, will be tested in the Gwinn and Baraga Bear Management Units. This experimental hunting period is one of the DNR's efforts to explore ways of providing more hunters with an opportunity to hunt bear.

Harvest tags will be issued by random drawing. All resident applicants will have an equal chance of drawing a tag. Nonresidents will receive no more than two percent of the tags. Successful applicants will be notified in early August.

A participation license is required of bear hunters who are not issued a harvest tag, but wish to actively participate in a bear hunt behind dogs. Those applying for a bear harvest tag may choose to receive a participation license if unsuccessful in the drawing for a tag; those not opting for a participation license will receive a complete refund. Participation licenses are also available at the DNR License Control Section for those who did not apply for a harvest tag, but choose to hunt bear with dogs.

Camp Grayling, Red Cross join forces to save lives

When emergencies happen, Americans respond. The outpouring of blood donors during the Oklahoma City bombing demonstrated that generosity. The problem is that too many Americans connect blood donations with a crisis. The everyday emergencies—the mother giving birth to a premature baby, the child with hemophilia or leukemia, the college student involved in a car crash—also require an ample blood supply. This summer, the Red Cross wants to be ready for unplanned emergencies and meet the needs of all hospitalized patients.

American Red Cross and the Michigan National Guard are appealing to guardsmen and the community to help replenish the nation's blood supply. Military personnel provide a valuable service to residents of Michigan and to the country. This summer, soldiers have the opportunity to provide one more vital community service—becoming a blood donor. Camp Grayling Michigan National Guard Armory is hosting a 2-day event and anticipates collecting 300 units of blood. The blood drives are scheduled for Wednesday, June 21, from 12 noon to 5:45 p.m. and Thursday, June 22, from 9 a.m. to 2:45 p.m.

Blood donations are a form of heroism available to all Americans. There must be a safe and adequate supply when family, friends or neighbors need it; not just every time there is a crisis, but every 10 seconds.

Blood donors must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 110 pounds and be in good health. For more information, call the American Red Cross BloodLine at 1-800-GIVE-LIFE. You can play a critical part in maintaining a precious, life-saving resource for our community and the nation.

Interlochen Arts Camp opens for 68th season

"If you listen, you can hear them coming!" is a slogan Interlochen Arts Camp personnel have been uttering at the beginning of every summer for years, and with good reason. On Sunday, June 25, the world-renowned fine arts camp opens its 68th season with its largest enrollment ever. Over 1,800 youngsters from every state and 35 other countries will come to northern Michigan for four and 8-week camp sessions to study music, visual art, dance and theatre arts.

The Interlochen Arts Festival Summer Season also gets into full swing with four concerts on campus this week. For a complete listing of student and guest artist events, contact the Interlochen Box Office at (616) 276-6230.

All proceeds from this fun and exciting day will go towards the AuSable River Festival Parade and for the painting of the Crawford County Historical Museum.

Rumor has it that GPA's manager, "Sparky" (aka Gloria) Kraus is out

The broadcast can be heard regionally on Interlochen Public Radio, 88.7 FM in Interlochen, 100.9 FM in East Jordan and 100.7 FM in Traverse City.

Other performances of note are SpaceAge Keyboard Tuesday, June 27, at 8 p.m. in Corson Auditorium, a faculty concert in the Michael P. Dendrinos Chapel on June 27, at 8 p.m., and a high school symphonic band performance in Corson at 8:30 p.m. under the direction of Myron Welch.

The center is situated on a 1,200-acre campus 16 miles southwest of Traverse City on M-137.

There will be fun for all on Monday, June 26, at 6 p.m., at the Hanson Hills ball park. The use of the park is compliments of the Grayling Recreation Authority.

There will be hot dogs, refreshments, door prizes and most important, an enjoyable way to help raise funds for two very important events here in Grayling. Contact WGRY/WQON at 348-6171 for ticket information.

THE GARDEN CORNER

A service of the Crawford County MSU Extension Office

'Leaflets three, let it be —
Poison Ivy'

It can grow as an upright shrub or as a climbing or sprawling vine, deep in the backwoods or right in your backyard. Its leaflets vary in shape, with margins that may be smooth, toothed and/or lobed, and range in finish from glossy to dull.

It's poison ivy, and it's so variable that the old couplet "Leaflets three, let it be" is about the only advice on identification that always holds true.

Though most painful experiences with poison ivy begin when a person comes in direct contact with the plant and its irritating oil, the oil can also be acquired second-hand — from clothing, tools, pets or other items that came in contact with plants — or smoke from burning poison ivy plants. People who inhale the oily smoke can have especially severe problems.

Skin contact with the oil results in blotching of the skin and burning water blisters, itching, swelling and throbbing pain. Symptoms may occur soon after exposure or may take up to several days to appear.

People vary in their sensitivity to poison ivy. Even people who know they have been exposed but suffered no reaction should avoid poison ivy as much as possible — sensitivity can develop with repeated exposure.

All parts of the plant can irritate and secrete the oil that causes symptoms. If you think you have come in contact with poison ivy, wash exposed skin with a strong alkaline soap such as yellow laundry soap or naphtha, or with alcohol. Ordinary hand soap is too mild and does not remove the oil completely.

Controlling poison ivy in the home grounds can be difficult. Digging plants out when the soil is wet is one approach. The trick is to remove all the roots from the soil. Any roots left behind will grow into new plants.

Control with herbicides is another option. The key there is to treat the poison ivy without harming the lawn, trees, shrubs, or other desirable plants nearby. Always follow label directions when mixing and applying herbicides and other lawn and garden chemicals.

The best tactic is to kill the plant in place and leave it there. After the plant dies, the leaves, stems and roots will decompose. You only have to be careful not to work in the area too soon after killing the ivy.

Any tools used around poison ivy should be cleaned with alcohol. Clothes that may be contaminated with the oil should be washed in an alkaline detergent and hot water, preferably by someone who is not terribly sensitive to poison ivy. That person should then wash any skin that may have been exposed to oil on the clothes, using alcohol, yellow laundry soap or naphtha, to avoid poisoning or transferring the oil to other people or objects.

ISSUES AND OPINIONS

ALMANACK By Richard Milliman

Most of us know a Scott O'Grady

AMERICA'S NEWEST folk hero has earned that recognition in part because he insists he isn't.

The saga of Air Force Capt. Scott O'Grady and his dramatic sojourn behind enemy lines in a little-understood war halfway across the world has captivated the country.

Capt. O'Grady's F-16 fighter plane was shot down by a Serbian missile during a NATO mission over Bosnia.

He parachuted to safety, and survived six days in Serbian territory largely due to his training, his wits, and his determination.

He ate grass and bugs, captured rain water in a sponge, wrung out his wet socks to ease his thirst, hid within feet of would-be captors, traveled only by night and hid in stillness all day, heard nearby gunfire meant for him, and was rocked by heavy artillery firing nearby.

Finally by radio he contacted friendly aircraft, and military helicopters zoomed to the rescue as he ran out of the woods, zigzagged across open ground and clambered aboard an American chopper.

Truly, Scott O'Grady lived a storybook adventure.

And America loves him for it.

BUT HERO? Not to himself.

"Everyone is saying 'you're a hero, you're a hero,'" he said. "All I was was a scared little bunny, trying to survive. The guys who rescued me were the heroes."

Capt. O'Grady has maintained this same humble posture from the moment he was rescued. He credits others, and plays down his own heroics. This is one reason others consider him a hero.

There are other reasons Capt. O'Grady and his exploits have hit such a responsive chord with the American public.

—He's human. He cries. When he heard the tape of conversation between him, on the ground, and his eventual rescuer, in the air, tears rolled down his cheeks.

—He's firm in his convictions. He believes in prayer and in God and is proud of it. He credited God repeatedly in explaining what happened to him.

Asked why the Serbs didn't find him, he answered: "God. He protected me." Again: "When I was out there, I heard your prayers." And yet again: "I prayed for rain one night and God delivered." And perhaps his strongest statement of personal belief: "It was God, God's love for me and my love for Him... That's what got me through this..."

—HE'S SELF-effacing. He did what he was supposed to do, in the way it was taught him to do. He practiced that which was preached to him. He did his job.

—He doesn't take himself too seriously. He smiles and laughs a lot. He said he was "a scared little bunny." He seems genuinely awed by lunch with President Clinton, or talking on the phone with Nancy Reagan, or being on the Larry King TV show.

—He's proud of the service and his country. And he's close to his family.

All in all, Scott O'Grady has consistently come across, even in the glare of unexpected spotlight, as the kind of guy you might meet anywhere and would like to invite over for Sunday dinner — a genuine person, open and honest... an unlikely hero, not a superman, certainly an improbable Rambo, as his friends acknowledge.

In short, Scott O'Grady seems like a guy you already know and like, or at least someone pretty much like him.

It's about time America got a hero like him. Let's hope it lasts.

THE GREAT DEBATE — It really wasn't a debate, but more of a lovefest when President Bill Clinton and Speaker Newt Gingrich appeared on the same platform in New Hampshire the other day.

The two key politicians reportedly were downright civil to each other.

Nothing of newsworthiness emerged from the dialogue, except that neither drew blood — or even apparently attempted it. They politely disagreed on things on which they have usually disagreed, and agreed on little.

Unfortunately no light was shed on much of anything either.

But they were polite and civil — which is the way politics probably should be.

The "calm but candid outline of their myriad of differences," as Associated Press described it, probably should not be surprising.

When you stop to think of it, Mr. Clinton and Mr. Gingrich really are pretty much alike — except in their expressed political beliefs.

Chief is alive and well

To the editor:

Just to let you all know that the Shoppenagon Hotel is alive and well after several months (years?) of "iffy" food, service and entertainment. For all of us who found this to be a unique, fun experience, we have been sad and disappointed at what appeared to be its demise.

However, Nancy Graf has come to the rescue, bringing with her Chef Gordon Beard, with impressive expertise. The food is good, presentation imaginative, and service improved.

Perhaps we will all be dining and dancing again. Let's give it a try! Nancy and Gordy deserve our support.

P.S. Isn't it too bad that an article about the new chef is in the Gaylord paper?

DOODLES FROM THE TALL TIMBER

By Wendell L. Hoover, Park Interpreter

I am not sure that I completely understand all the causes for the formation of dew, but the sun reflecting off those droplets of water on the grass just after sunrise can be really spectacular. Many small and some pretty large creatures obtain much of their moisture from this source of water. Dew forms when moist air condenses on a cold object and some plants give up their heat better than others, hence the dew on the grass after a calm, clear night, which, by the way, usually means there is a good weather day to come.

Did you know that a dew drop is a tiny mirror? If you take the time to risk getting your knees wet you will see on the surface of each drop the upside-down image of nearby trees, buildings or clouds. If you are fortunate to find a spider's web suspended between two plant stems, it may be covered with dew creating a fleeting, but beautiful natural art scene.

A blade of grass will quite often have one large drop at its very tip and smaller drops arranged with nearly perfect spacing along its sharp edge, and if you are lucky enough to find a caterpillar sleeping on a plant stem, every hair on its back is likely to be tipped by a minute drop of dew. If you have a flower garden, take the opportunity to go there in the morning when the dew is heavy. There is something about the circumstance that makes the fragrance from the flowers different than at other times.

Speaking of weather signs that indicate rain, we could use some without a doubt, are mares' tails. They usually indicate that rain should only be a half a day away and one source I have says the rain may last awhile. Keep in mind, also, that when there is no dew on the grass the weather may take a wet turn.

By the time you read this, my office and responsibilities will have moved from the Hartwick Pines to the management unit of North Higgins Lake State Park, the Ralph A. MacMullan Conference Center and South Higgins Lake State Park. I am still planning to pen a weekly article under the same title, but I should be able to report a whole bunch of new goings on to you. You can get a message to me at 275-6125. Take care, see you next week.

Something's missing; someone will pay

Never go to sleep angry.

I've always followed that wise advice, which is usually aimed at couples who've been arguing all day. They should make up before they go to sleep at night. Otherwise she won't make his breakfast in the morning.

But I wasn't mad at my wife, I was mad at my book, The Chamber, by John Grisham. Why? To begin with, blame the season.

On that day, I'd intended to start reading The Tibetan Book of Living and Dying by Sogyal Rinpoche, a Buddhist activist. A kind reader sent it in regard to my column claiming that, no matter what Pat Robertson preaches, Christianity isn't necessarily the only morally acceptable answer to whatever question is raised.

In the forward, Rinpoche's book promises, among other things, to tell me how to help the dead. I admit I haven't spent a lot of time fretting about that particular problem. I guess I thought the dead were beyond help, and I might better aid the breathing.

Obviously, this is heavy, intellectual-type prose. So, before reading further, I consulted a calendar. It's summer! Time for summer reading, a dictate I've always followed, even if I don't qualify.

Movie was OK but book smells

The idea is that while lazing on the beach in the hot sun, you shouldn't treat your brain as though you are squatting in a snowbank studying for final exams. Read a trashy romance.

The truth is I never saw a beach I wanted to laze on. No matter what the weather, I prefer reading in my favorite chair, in bed, or standing in line at the bank.

And, even though the movie was OK, I'm sure I couldn't read four pages of The Bridges of Madison County without retching. I base this certain feeling on the opinions of reviewers I trust. Never mind Julius LaRosa.

In a recent radio interview, LaRosa became the first apparently rational person to claim publicly that the "Bridges" book is better than the movie. (If you never heard of LaRosa, you're too young to be reading this adult material. Go ask your grandpa what Arthur Godfrey dared do to a tenor.)

Anyway, inspired by the movie, the newest item on fragrance counters is a cologne called Bridges. When a film is made of The Tibetan Book of Living and Dying, I'm fairly certain there'll be no perfume manufacturers scrambling for the right to sell the smell of either condition.

On death row, then on edge

So, like a good little summer reader, I put off the Tibetan book until snowfall and instead paid Kmart $5.63 for John Grisham's latest courtroom wallow to reach paperback, which surely qualifies for sandy lazing, in case the bank line ever stretches that far.

You'll be surprised at how that book made me go to sleep angry.

It was nothing Grisham wrote. It was Chapter 11, which occurred just when the narrative was getting particularly interesting, on death row. Except for the headline and one page, there was no Chapter 11. Instead, it was replaced by Chapter 7, which I'd already read. Chapter 11 was nowhere in the book; believe me, I looked and looked.

So I had to try — and try — to get to sleep without knowing the outcome of a death-row confrontation. Which made me angry.

The next day at the Lapeer Kmart, when I exchanged my copy for the complete book, manager Dan Bartholomew was extremely accommodating. I only hope Grisham's publisher, Dell, is equally reasonable about my lawsuit seeking $10 million in damages for mental anguish. My sleep is precious to me.

Subsequently, I will write a legal thriller describing my battle for justice against a giant publishing corporation. There'll also be a movie. I can smell it now.

Vandals desecrate Elmwood Cemetery

What is the attraction to pranksters who turn over, or spray paint obscenities on cemetery headstones? Vandalism in cemeteries has gone on forever and will probably always continue. But for families that are victims of grave desecration, the hurt goes straight to the heart.

Cemeteries are places where loved ones are supposed to rest in eternal peace. Vandalism rips through that peace and defiles the honor and love of family members still living, for those that have died.

Sometime during the night of Tuesday and Wednesday, June 13-14, vandals tipped over, and spray painted obscenities on markers in Grayling's Elmwood Cemetery.

One of the stones that was painted with sexually explicit remarks is the final resting place of Christian W. Olsen, which probably doesn't mean much to the vandals, but means a great deal to a large family group still living in the Grayling area. Olsen was a man who had great impact on Grayling and its early citizens. He was loved and respected by many.

The perpetrators of cemetery vandalism not only deal an emotional blow to family members, but to whole communities. The memories of every deceased person, none more important than another, come together to make the history of a community and of a country.

The vandals at Elmwood Cemetery owe many families a debt that may never be able to be repaid, and they owe the community a sincere apology.

The following obituary for Christian W. Olsen is reprinted just as it originally appeared in the March 10, 1938 Crawford County Avalanche.

Christian W. Olsen died at Mercy hospital at 3:40 o'clock Sunday afternoon from pneumonia. Business man, former mayor of Grayling, councilman and supervisor, and vice president of the Kiwanis Club of Grayling. 54 years of age.

When Chris Olsen was taken to Mercy hospital Friday afternoon no one realized that he was in a precarious physical condition or that his illness meant any more than a few days' interruption from his business. What seemed to be a severe cold developed into pleural pneumonia. He was unconscious when placed into an oxygen tent Saturday. His was a long battle, and on Sunday little hope was held for him. He passed away that afternoon. The news was shocking to the people of Grayling.

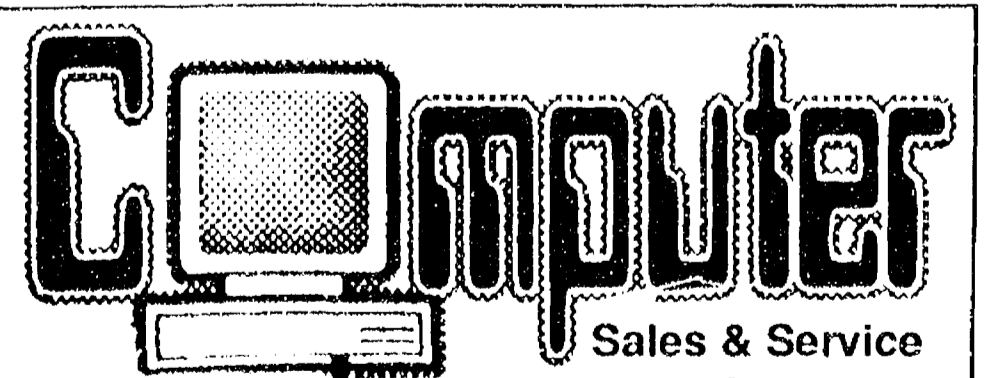

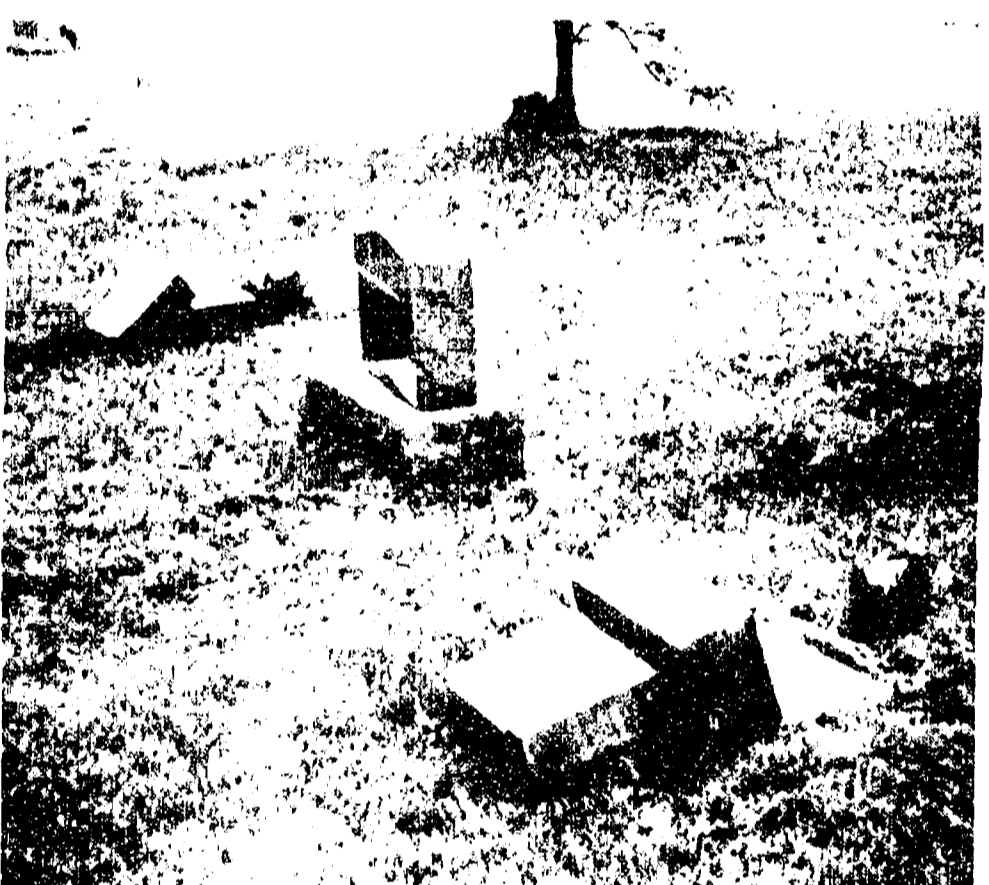

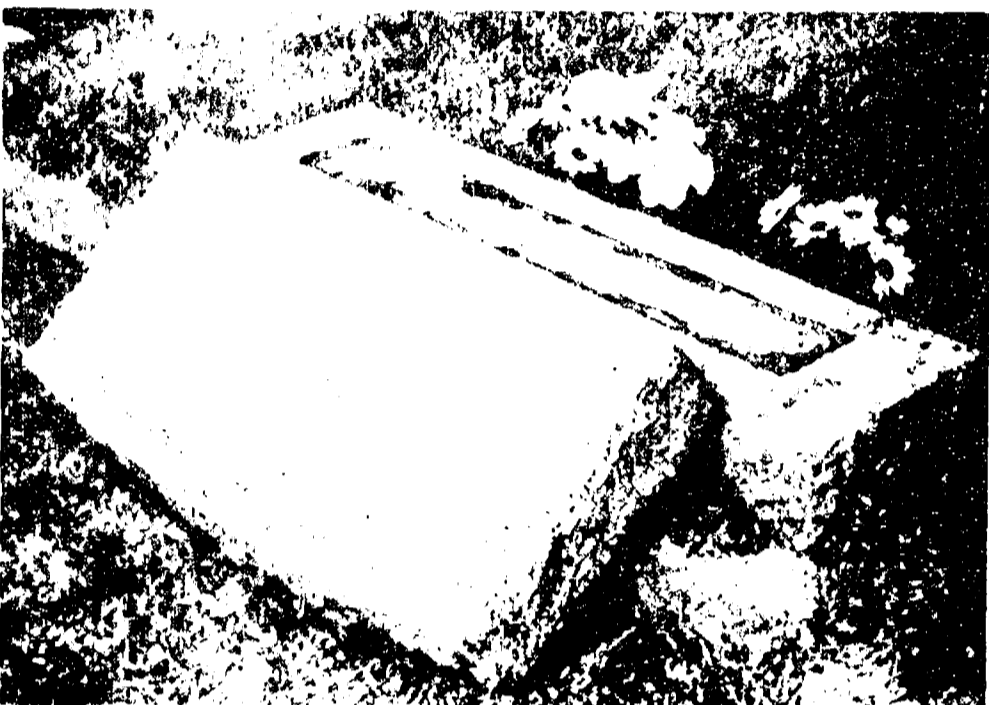

"Chris," as he was generally known to his home people, hadn't been feeling well for several days and kept pretty well to his rooms, which were over his store. As his condition grew worse he was ordered to Mercy hospital.

Christian W. Olsen was born in Aalborg, Denmark. He came to America in 1908 and secured employment with the General Electric Co., at Schenectady, N.Y. In 1910 he came to Grayling and entered employment with Salling Hanson Co., working in the woods. For two years he was superintendent of woods operations at Drummond Island. Later he became the head bookkeeper for Salling Hanson Co. After several years in that position he went to Owosso where he remained a couple of years.

But Grayling always had an appeal for him and he returned to Grayling and in the year 1922 purchased the drug store that was operated at that time by Alfred Olson. He made a splendid success of this business. Two years ago he sustained a disastrous fire and had to move to new quarters. With a new stock and fixtures he opened again to the public late in May, 1936, where he continued to the present time. He took a lot of interest in public affairs and served many years in public office for which there was almost no monetary reward. He was elected village president in the spring of 1929 and served for two years.

Grayling changed from its for of aldermanic government to that of commission form, and Mr. Olsen was elected the first mayor of the newly chartered city. He served for two years, and a year ago he was re-elected to the council which position he held up to the time of his death. Also during the time he was on the city council he served as a member of the county board of supervisors.

During his official tenure of office he led the city thru to the successful completion of a number of major objectives. The bonding for a new waterworks system had been passed during the administration of Mayor Clarence Clippert and built under that of Mr. Olsen. In this he spent a lot of personal time and effort. This was in the years 1929 and 1931.

Paving of Michigan avenue and putting in of boulevard lights were pet projects of Mr. Olsen and it was largely because of his efforts that they were completed. He took a leading part in the construction of sanitary sewers in the city and the construction of a sewage disposal system.

Mr. Olsen was very keen and well informed in public matters and gave a most liberal portion of his time for the good of the city. The city of Grayling made great civic progress for the past several years and Mr. Olsen did more than his share in its advancement. Few men could, or would, give so much of their time for public good, oftentimes to the detriment of his own business as did Mr. Olsen.

The City of Grayling owes much to Mr. Olsen for the splendid service he rendered. His activities brought him into direct relations with many persons of official prominence and he became well known almost everywhere he went. For many years he was the president of Crawford county chapter of the Red Cross, spending much personal time in its administration. His personal friends were numbered from all walks of life, both old and young.

He was a member of Grayling Danish Lutheran church; Grayling Masonic lodge, and Portage lodge Knights of Pythias of Grayling, Grayling Golf club and Grayling Kiwanis club.

His death is a distinct loss to the city of his adoption and which he served so well and which he loved.

The remains of Mr. Olsen rested in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Stealy until this morning (Thursday) when they were removed to Michelson Memorial church parlors, where they lay in state until time for the funeral this afternoon. Interment will be at Elmwood cemetery. His sister, Miss Anna Olsen, who resides in Palm Beach, Florida, was unable to be here for the funeral. Other survivors are his mother, a sister and two brothers, in Denmark.

School-To-Work, an innovative way to teach

road. This program will start impacting kids and taking place in the classrooms this fall, said Coulter. By the end of next year the School-To-Work program will have had an impact on 6,000 students.

Schools are looking more and more at the product they are producing and how effective that product is in the work force. At the end of high school, student surveys indicate that 75 percent are planning to attend a four-year college. Four years later only 14 percent have actually completed a bachelors degree, 20 percent have completed an associates degree and 30 percent have had no special skill training.

It is projected that by the year 2000, 20 percent of the jobs will require a bachelors degree and 65 percent will require one or more years of skilled training and/or an associates degree. A more educated work force is needed to meet the demands of the ever-changing technology.

A whole new work-force generation is about to begin training for its future and some are as young as five years old. School-To-Work isn't just for high school students. This is a program that is being applied at every grade level, K-12. As early as kindergarten, students can be taught personal/life skills, higher order thinking, career awareness, integrated project learning and career counseling.

Career counseling for a five-year-old? Making students aware of the diversity of career paths and how learning your ABC's in kindergarten will help you organize your filing cabinet or locate information at the library or in a phone book is just the beginning.

There are three core components to Michigan's School-To-Work system. The first is work-based learning, which provides students with a planned program of job training and experiences relevant to a student's career. School-based learning is the second component, which includes chances for career awareness and career exploration. The third component is the connecting of activities between the work-based and school-based learning. The entire program is designed to answer the number one question asked by students, "Teacher, why do I have to know this and when will I ever use it?" To give teachers ideas to help answer that question, area teachers are heading out to local businesses this summer and observing what is happening in the work place. The teachers will develop classroom activities to reenact these real life situations and answer the question.

School-To-Work Coordinator Frank Schultz said, "It's a way to add relevance to your instruction."

"Sometimes people are cautious about changing the curriculum," said Schultz, "but we aren't changing the curriculum. We are changing the way they present it."

School-To-Work will cost $49 million for the state program. COOR received over $124,000 in state grants to fund the local School-To-Work program until June 1996. The money will help develop a partnership between business and industry, education, local agencies and government. The money will also help achieve the Department of Education's goals for the high school graduating class of 2000. Those goals include:

- 100 percent will have at least one job shadowing experience during grades 8-10.

- 100 percent will have an Educational Employment Development Plan (EEDP).

- 90 percent will have an endorsed high school diploma.

- 50 percent will have participated in a structured paid work-based learning experience.

- 40 percent will have completed a career major linked to a community college associate degree program or registered apprenticeship.

- 30 percent will have earned a skill certificate in a career field.

Teachers from the Crawford AuSable School District involved in the COOR School-To-Work program are Karen Rauch-Smock, Susan Williams, Judith Mesack, Daniel Pummell, Ginger Casey, Richard Moffit, Bambi Mansfield and Paul Brunell. These teachers will be developing lesson plans to use in their classrooms this fall. All of the lesson plans developed will be shared among all of the teachers from all of the school districts.

There are 42 teachers in COOR's School-To-Work program. If each of them develops 10 lesson plans, there will be 420 lesson plans to share, said Coulter. The teachers will get tremendous support from each other and from COOR. The teachers will be able to share why something worked or didn't work with others in the program, allowing all of them to learn from each experience.

Landing the first job can be one of the biggest hurdles for a student to jump, but Michigan schools are prepared to give students a boost. In addition to the School-To-Work program, schools are also helping students develop portfolios.

By 1997, Michigan employers can expect to see student applicants with established portfolios showcasing their achievements and strengths. Since 1993 all ninth grade students in Michigan have been required to develop student portfolios that show evidence of the student's progress in their career, academic skills, teamwork skills, and personal management skills.

Beginning with the freshman class of the 1995-96 school year, portfolios will be a requirement of high school graduation throughout Michigan. The portfolios will be developed throughout a student's school career, beginning as early as kindergarten.

Awards, letters of reference, test scores, and evidence of work are some of the things employers will be able to find in the portfolio. Portfolios will be supervised by the students' teachers until they reach the ninth grade. At that time the portfolio becomes the student's responsibility. This gives prospective employers another tool to use when evaluating candidates for employment.

Employers have wanted a skilled work force and now they can have a say in exactly what kind of training needs to be taking place in the schools. Any business interested in learning more about the School-To-Work program or how to get involved can contact Dick Coulter or Frank Schultz at the COOR Intermediate School District at 275-5137.

History of the Flag of the United States

Special to the Avalanche
By Marie Scott
Ladies Auxiliary to VFW Carl W. Borchers Post #3736

The Flag of the United States of America is one of the oldest of the national standards of the world, older than the Union Jack of Great Britain or the Tricolor of France.

During the early days of the Revolutionary War a variety of flags were used by the different colonies and military commands. Prominent among these were the "Pine Tree" and "Rattlesnake" flags with various arrangements and mottos.

Late in 1775, a committee of Congress with Benjamin Franklin at the head, after consulting with George Washington, then in command of the army at Cambridge, decided upon the form for a new flag. This flag consisted of 13 stripes, red and white, with the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew on a blue field in the canton or union. This preceded the Declaration of Independence and indicated that the colonies had not wholly broken from the mother country. The flag was first unfurled by Washington, Jan. 2, 1776.

During 1776 and 1777, a number of flags with 13 stripes came into use and the need of a definite national emblem was realized. On June 14, 1777, Congress passed an act stating, "That the flag of the 13 United States, be 13 stripes, alternate red and white, that the union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation." George Washington described the white in the flag as symbolizing our desire for liberty—the land of the free. The red—courage and sacrifices of the nation's defenders, and the blue—loyalty and unity of our citizens. This was the birthday of the flag as we now know it and June 14 is now celebrated as "Flag Day."

On Jan. 13, 1794, after Vermont and Kentucky had become states, Congress voted that the flag should have 15 stripes and 15 stars. This flag remained in use for 23 years, and it was The Star-Spangled Banner of which Francis Scott Key wrote in 1814.

In April, 1818, Congress passed an act providing that the flag should have the 13 horizontal stripes, alternate red and white, and that the union should display 20 stars, representing the number of states then in the Union. It also provided that on the admission of every new state to the Union a star should be added. In the following July 4th, and this has been the regulation ever since, accounting for the number of stars now shown.

Utility customers asked to help prevent dog bites

Warm temperatures can prove hazardous for meter readers, who usually encounter more dogs outdoors as the weather heats up. In recognition of National Dog Bite Prevention Week (June 12-17) Consumers Power Company is asking customers to help its employees work safely by making sure dogs are restrained away from natural gas and electric meters. "With the milder temperatures and sunshine of June, more customers are leaving their dogs outside during the day, causing a potential hazard for meter readers and other service workers," said Barbara Henton, gas revenue services manager for the utility.

"Even the most well-mannered, gentle dog can become protective and aggressive around people it doesn't know. We also remind homeowners who have indoor gas meters to keep their dogs restrained when the meter is read or service work is done," Henton said.

In 1994, 19 Consumers Power employees were injured by animal bites while on the job, the same number as was reported in 1993.

"Though 19 incidents may not seem like many, every injury brings with it pain, suffering and a loss of productivity. We appreciate the continued cooperation of customers who own dogs to help keep our employees safe," Henton said.

More than two million dog bites are reported each year in the United States. It's a serious problem for everyone. The following are some safety tips from the United States Postal Service and the Humane Society of the United States.

How to avoid being bitten:
•Don't run past a dog. The dog's natural instinct is to chase and catch prey.

•If a dog threatens you, don't scream. Avoid eye contact, try to remain motionless until the dog leaves, then back away slowly until the dog is out of sight.

•Don't approach a strange dog, especially one that's tied or confined.
•Always let a dog see and sniff you before you pet the animal.

How to be a responsible dog owner:

•Spay or neuter your dog. Unneutered dogs are more likely to bite.

•When a service provider or letter carrier comes to your home, keep your dog inside, away from the door, in another room or on a leash.

•Don't let your child take mail from a letter carrier or get close to a service provider in the presence of your dog. Your dog's instinct is to "protect" the family.

•Obedience training can teach your dog proper behavior and help you control your dog in any situation.

BITS OF TALK

By Fay Bovee

Children of today must have more than they need or they do not have the thing that they need most, love, supervision, and discipline. Why do some feel the need to spend money for useless things like spray paint to make a mess on someone else's property? Why do some feel they have to steal from public places and businesses for things that they have absolutely no use?

Whitey talks about his early days as he enjoyed them. My childhood was also a very happy one and since no one told us that we were under the poverty line, if there was such a thing in those depression days, we lived a happy, care-free childhood with lots of friends in the neighborhood to play games in the street and around the houses, to play ball, to build things, and yes, to have the usual neighborhood fight. Our parents refused to take sides in those squabbles and so we blissfully got over them and went on with our activities!

Enough! Now for recognition of those people who are trying to make this city a pleasant place to live. Our neighbors, the Humes at Pentof's have their usual display of flowers by the road and by the pumping station, the Hunters and Henrys at Borch's have done a lot of landscaping and taking down trees that were falling down anyway, and Joe Wakeley has also been taking down some old trees.

We haven't been up Chestnut Street much lately, but the other day we became aware of how many improvements have been made in the former George Burke and Emil Niederer houses in the 700 block. We don't know the owners, but compliment them anyway.

Dr. Hough has planted his red, white, and blue plantings after all. Thank you, Jim, you really keep that corner looking nice. But we do wonder what happened to the Grayling decorations on the corner, more vandalism?

Retired staff members of the Crawford AuSable Schools held their annual dinner and get-together at the American Legion Hall on Saturday afternoon and evening, June 3.

Attending were LeRoy and Marie Akers, LeRoy Christian, Fern Duncan, Jim and Pat Failing, Norm and Helen Feldhauser, Gerald and Shirlee McEvers, Betty Millikin, Bruce and Corrine Smith, Faith Stripe, Ari Thayer, Jack and Aggie Trudgeon, Jerry and Jane Larson, Doris Harland, and Baich Anderson, all of Grayling, Linda and Charles Rickwald of West Branch, and Ralph and Ruth Miller of Traverse City.

The women of the Legion Auxiliary served a delicious dinner. Pat Failing replaced LeRoy Akers, who resigned from the planning committee.

For those of you who inquired about John Cammin, he is getting along very well now. Perhaps you see him on his Amigo around town and around his yard, but he has progressed to a cane some of the time and expects to start therapy soon.

Several members of St. John Lutheran congregation were in Oscoda last Saturday for the ordination of their former intern pastor, John Shipman. It took place at the Hope Lutheran Church in that city. He has completed his studies at the Lutheran Seminary in Columbus, OH. On Sunday, he was installed as a full time pastor at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Au Gres. About a year ago, Shipman had served the St. John congregation here as an intern pastor.

Michael Kemper and June Secor were married in Kalamazoo on June 10. Kemper had served as the first intern pastor at St. John Lutheran Church here.

Congratulations to Bernice Hilton who celebrated her 86th birthday on June 3. She spent the day with her family, Tom and Marian Hilton, in Lansing, and other members of the family joined them for a birthday dinner at a restaurant.

FOOT NOTES

by Ronald K. Olm, D.P.M.

BABY YOUR CHILD'S FEET

Even before children are old enough to use their feet for more than waving in the air, parents should give some thought to foot care. To allow muscles to develop, a baby should never be punished so tightly that feet are restricted from moving freely. Also, use baby walkers and jumpers with caution. Early overuse of walkers may cause muscles in the back of the leg to shorten, and walkers have been associated with a variety of injuries. When letting the child bounce in a jumper, place something soft, such as an exercise mat, under the feet to avoid stressing bones. Use bathing or changing times to watch for signs of foot trouble, including growths, swelling, discoloration or tenderness. From baby's tender toes to Grandma's more "experienced" feet, we can all greatly benefit from regular, professional podiatric care. In addition to treating diseases, disorders and deformities, we counsel our patients on how to prevent future foot problems from developing. GRAND TRAVERSE FOOT & ANKLE CENTER, P.C. offers foot care for feet of all shapes, sizes and ages at 1209 E. 8th St., Traverse City (922-9100 & 800-968-7440). Offices in Traverse City, also KALKASKA MEMORIAL HEALTH CENTER, Monday & Wednesday afternoons and evenings. I am on staff at Kalkaska Memorial Health Center and Munson Medical Center. P.S. Some children are born with extra toes, which usually must be surgically removed.

Two receive diabetes educator certification

The National Certification Board for Diabetes Educators recently announced that Rhonda Haske, R.N., and Cheryl Melroy, R.D., of Grayling Mercy Hospital, have achieved Certified Diabetes Education (CDE) status as a result of its examination.

Candidates must meet educational and professional experience requirements to be eligible to take the written examination. The multiple-choice examination tests knowledge about physiology and pathophysiology, non-pharmacologic therapies, pharmacologic interventions, monitoring and management, complications, psychosocial factors, and principles of teaching and learning.

The National Certification Board for Diabetes Educators was established in 1986 by the American Association of Diabetes Educators to develop and administer a certification program for health professionals who teach persons with diabetes how to manage their disease. The board supports the idea of voluntary, periodic certification by examination for all health care professionals in direct diabetes patient education. Certification focuses specifically on the individual and is an indication of current knowledge in diabetes education and care.

Haske and Melroy have formed a successful diabetes management educational series that meets the third Wednesday of each month at 3:30 p.m. Class size is limited. To register, call the Mercy Healthline nurse at 1-800-33-MERCY.

FREDERIC COMMUNITY LIBRARY NEWS

Legend of Sleepy Hollow and All Dogs Go to Heaven. These VHS tapes were bought with a donation given to the library by the Grayling Eagles. Thank you, Eagles!

The library will also be receiving VHS tapes from the series Predators of the Wild and Trials of Life. The library should receive one VHS tape every month from each series. These tapes will be paid for with money earned from Glen's slips donated by the public. Thanks to everyone who donates their Glen's slips to the library. The library really appreciates them. If you have Glen's slips saved and want to give them to a good cause, bring them to the library, or put them in an envelope and put them in the book return.

The Grayling Kmart donated flowers again for the third year. The flowers will be planted the first day of the summer film and activity program, which is June 27.

Hooked-On-Phonics is available at the library. It can be checked out for one week on a $10 deposit. The $10 will be refunded when the tapes are returned. There is also a set which can be used at the library. Summer would be a good time to learn or help someone learn how to read, so why not come to the library and check out the phonics!

The Frederic library is open Monday through Thursday, 1 to 6 p.m. If you have any questions, comments or complaints, direct them to the Frederic Community Library Advisory Board, P.O. Box 353, Frederic, MI 49733, or call the library at 348-4067.

The Frederic Community Library will be having the "film and activity program" again this year. It will be held on Tuesdays, starting June 27, at 2:30 p.m. It will last approximately 1 1/2 hours. Activities include reading stories, planting flowers, watching movies and film strips, doing arts and crafts, a coloring contest, nature hunt and nature hike. Also, refreshments will be served at each program. There will be a special party for the kids at the end of summer. They hope to have a lot of kids come this summer and join the fun.

The "summer reading program" will run June 12 through July 28. This year the theme is "Solve Mysteries—Read." The sponsors will be McDonald's, Dairy Queen and Pizza Hut of Grayling. When you read books, you'll earn incentives from the sponsors. So, the more you read, the more you'll learn and earn. Come to the Frederic Community Library and join the summer reading program.

Canoe trip marks end of middle school career for 8th grade boys

By Nick Stancil
Staff Writer

The eighth grade boys' canoe trip marked the end of a four year middle school career for 68 boys on June 1-2. The annual canoe trip down the Manistee River began at 10 a.m. on Thursday, June 1 and was not completed until about 4 p.m. on Friday, June 2.

The eighth grade boys and girls were treated to an all you can eat pancake breakfast at the Knights of Columbus Hall that was prepared for them by volunteers. After their breakfast, the boys traveled by school bus to the Horse Camp near County Road 612 where their journey began.

The boys paddled with several breaks throughout the day until they reached their camp site at about 6 p.m.

"The trip is tough," said social studies teacher and trip coordinator Butch Stockton. "It is a lot of paddling that the kids aren't used to and it's a lot of hours on the river."

All together, the trip consists of eight to ten hours of paddling from the Horse Camp to Dutch John Landing.

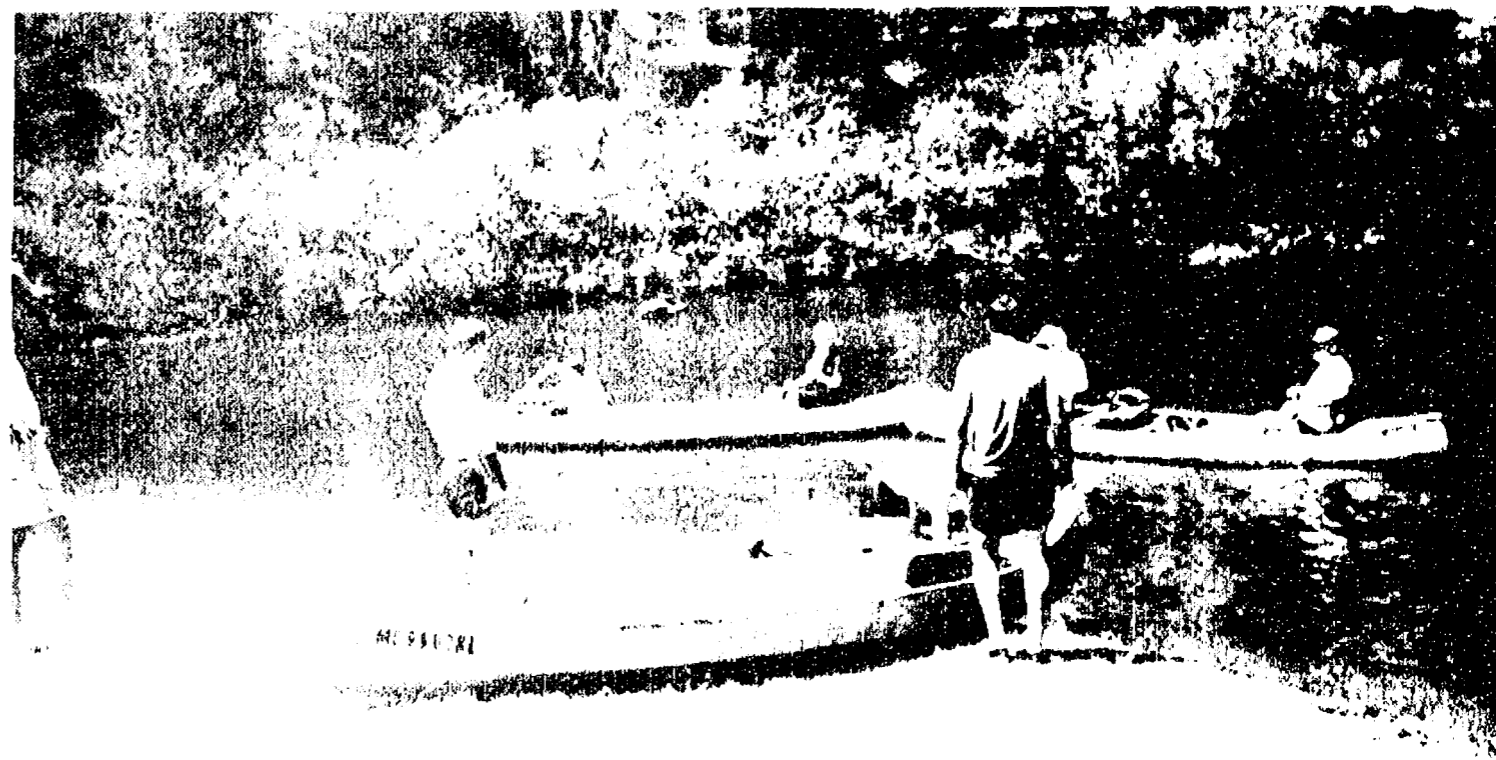

"The river was kind of low, but we had good weather," said Stockton. "The kids enjoyed themselves and we had a good group. We had a good camp and no one got into any trouble."

The canoe trip acts almost as a rite of passage as the students complete their four years in the middle school. The trip has taken place for over 20 years and the tradition will be continued next year.

The cost of the trip is covered entirely by the students and fundraisers that are held throughout the year.

Stockton also said that the trip has been made possible over the past few years with the help of many "regulars" who have donated much of their time. Don Ferguson, Dan Ullery, Bill Bedford, Ron Hall, Dale Papendick and Tom Sorenson have all been important in making the canoe trip a continued success.

EASY DOES IT-- A group of eighth grade boys prepare to continue their journey down the Manistee after stopping for a brief rest. The boys' trip was a two day canoeing and camping event.

G.M.S. lunch program makes a change for the better

This year's lunch program has changed tremendously from previous years at G.M.S. There is the new variety of food provided. There is also the new pop machine. Another thing is the new lunch room procedure.

G.M.S. is trying to make lunch more enjoyable for students. One way of doing this is by adding more kinds of food to the menu. Some of the things are: Nachos, soft-shelled tacos, foot-long hot dogs, ice cream, chef salad, and French bread pizza. These are not even all of the foods you can get at lunch at G.M.S.

There have been other changes also. Another one of these changes is the lunch room procedure. Students have to sit down before they can get in line for their food. A reason for this is that students have been stealing food and then getting out of line. There are still other changes like the lunch card system. Students like Jared Armstrong (8) don't like the lunch cards. He says, "I don't like the lunch cards. It was quicker just to buy the lunch."

One last change is the new pop machine. Students are allowed to buy pop for lunch. This new pop machine was installed just this year. Many changes have been made to make lunch much more satisfying for the students at G.M.S.

Abuse and neglect damage the nation's young

More babies and young children die at the hands of their parents than in car accidents, house fires, falls or drownings. At least 20,000 children age four or younger die from neglect or abuse every year, according to The Detroit Free Press.

Celebrant Singers to appear in concert July 6 in Gaylord

Jon Stenkoski's Celebrant Singers, an internationally-known Christian music ministry, will present a community-wide concert on Thursday, July 6, at 7:30 p.m. at St. Mary Cathedral Parish on Ohio Street in Gaylord. The concert is free of charge and a free-will offering will be taken.

Concert attendees will be treated to contemporary Christian music, praise and worship, and personal testimony and ministry. Featuring 10 singers and a 12-piece orchestra, Celebrant Singers will inspire and bless as they share the Gospel of Jesus Christ through a musical celebration.

"Celebrant Singers is not 'just another music group.' Our objective is to share the love of Christ," said Celebrant Singers founder Jon Stenkoski. "It's a powerful ministry! It will touch your heart. Bring your family and friends — it's an experience you won't soon forget!"

Celebrant Singers have travelled throughout all 50 states and 65 foreign countries and have sung to more than four million people in live concerts and countless others via broadcast media. During 1995, seven teams of Celebrant Singers will present over 1,400 concerts in some 17 nations, six Canadian provinces and all 50 states. Multiple teams of committed, dedicated and talented young adults represent 38 states, six Canadian provinces and several foreign nations.

Celebrant Singers recently returned from Haiti, where the group sang for U.S. military troops stationed there. Celebrants were the first to hold public religious meetings in communist-run Cuba in over 30 years. They were also one of the first Christian groups to conduct outreaches into the previously-closed nations of Bulgaria and Albania.

In 1984, Celebrant Singers ministered in St. Peter's Square before an Easter-week crowd of over 120,000 people. Celebrants were also honored by a private audience with Pope John Paul II. More recently, Celebrants participated in World Youth Day in Denver, prior to the arrival of the Pope. In addition to live appearances, Celebrant Singers have released seven recordings to date.

Religious Freedom

Our nation was built upon the foundation of God, His Word and religious freedom for all. The pilgrim fathers signed the Mayflower Compact before setting foot on this continent. This dedicated their future work here to the glory of God and the furtherance of the gospel of Jesus Christ. A puritan constitution written later declared God's word to be absolute authority. After the Declaration of Independence was signed in 1776, Sam Adams rose before the gathered assembly late that evening and declared, "We have this day restored the Sovereign to whom alone men ought to be obedient, He reins in heaven and from the rising to the setting sun may His kingdom come." The revolutionary war which followed was not fought to overthrow the government of King George, but rather to restore God to His rightful place as sovereign over the colonies. A position they believed King George had usurped. They had a slogan, "No King but King Jesus!"

Christopher Columbus is now being vilified by liberals in their modern revisions of history for his part in the founding of our nation. But let us read his own words from his own journal: "It was the Lord who put it into my mind (I could feel His hand upon me) the fact that it would be possible to sail from here to the Indies. All who heard of my project rejected it with laughter ridiculing me. There is no question that the inspiration was from the Holy Spirit, because He comforted me with rays of inspiration from the Holy Scriptures... I am a most unworthy sinner, but I have cried to the Lord for grace and mercy, and they have covered me completely. I have found the sweetest consolations since I made it my whole purpose to enjoy His marvelous presence. For the execution of the journey to the Indies, I did not make use of intelligence, mathematics, or maps. It is simply the fulfillment of what Isaiah prophesied."

The name Christopher means "Bearer of Christ" a prophetic name given him at birth by his parents. The Holy Scriptures Columbus was referring to in Isaiah were probably, "He shall not fail nor be discouraged, till he have set judgment in the earth: and the isles shall wait for his law." (ISA 42:4) "My righteousness [is] near; my salvation is gone forth, and mine arm shall judge the people; the isles shall wait upon me, and on mine arm shall they trust." (ISA 51:5) — Above quotes in this article are from the King James Bible, The Light and the Glory and From Sea to Shining Sea by Peter Marshall.

Our nation was born under "the Laws of nature and of Nature's God." We possess "unalienable Rights" from our "Creator." Immutably God, revive us again! Give us a new love for Thee, for our families, for our neighbors, and for our nation. Amen.

"Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee"

The Bible clearly instructs us to give our problems to God — to "cast" them upon Him. Yet, do we give them to God or merely lend them to Him, only taking them back when the answer is not immediate, or if it is not the one we desire?

Once again the Bible speaks to us: "Whatever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive" (Matthew 21:22). We must believe that God's answer is the correct answer, though it may not seem so at the time. Someone once said, "Everything in the universe is subject to constant change, and everything is on schedule." Is that a contradiction? No, that is a fact.

When you visit God's house each Sabbath, you will become increasingly aware of the spirit of God at work in your life. You will come to know peace, trusting Him with every care. Give Him your problems and take Him at His Word.

The Icehouse named in Top Ten for U.S.

According to Better Homes and Garden Patchwork and Quilting magazine

Little could The Icehouse Quilt Shop owner, Jill Wyman, imagine in 1980, when she and husband Dave, began renovating an old storage building into a quilt shop, that 15 years later her shop would be named one of the 10 best in the United States by Better Homes and Garden Patchwork and Quilting magazine. But, that is exactly what has happened.

The Icehouse was chosen over 400 other quilting shops, nationwide, for the honor. The top 10 shops will be featured in a special edition of the magazine in July, and each has been asked to provide a special quilt pattern to be published with the article.

"I'm so excited about this," Jill said. "God has truly blessed me with this honor, and with a wonderful staff and wonderful customers."

Jill and her staff celebrated the accomplishment on the 15th anniversary of The Icehouse by having an open house with breakfast on Saturday, June 10, followed by a week-long birthday celebration on Saturday, June 17.

In 1980, The Icehouse building was part of DuBois Lumber, owned by Dave. Prior to the invention of refrigeration, the building was actually used to store ice for the Pennsylvania Central Railroad's logging cars.

"I had dreamed of having a shop someday and when the children were old enough I began looking for a location," Jill said. "When Dave suggested the Icehouse, it felt like it was very promising. The previous owners had lived in it for 30 years or more, but Dave's crew began clearing it out and we opened in June of 1980."

Through the years, two additions, including connecting the building to another which had been a clothes pin factory, have brought The Icehouse to more than 3,000 square feet of space.

It includes a fancy-food section, classroom space for the many classes that are held throughout the year, gift displays, a Bernina sewing machine dealership, a year round Christmas loft, a quilt pattern and supply area and three walls lined with fabric.

Today, The Icehouse is known among quilters nationwide, for the lines of fine quality quilting fabric and wearable art.

"The staff plays a major roll in the success of the shop. Time and again customers will ask a staff member if they own the shop. I consider this a compliment. I consider this a compliment to me as well as to them. Each of the present six staff members were and are customers of the shop. They have varied backgrounds in quilting, home decorating, wearable art, and especially in customer service," Jill said.

"Most of the staff also teach in the shop, and two of our past staff members have had a pattern and book published. I feel very fortunate to have always had an outstanding staff over the 15 years in business, and I am aware that they have all made The Icehouse successful," she added.

Jill has built a large customer base from people who travel an average of 75 miles to shop, and who often spend the night in Grayling for special Icehouse events or classes.

"I teach, as does the majority of the staff," Jill said. "We also bring in guest artists several times a year."

One look at The Icehouse calendar of classes and events, published quarterly in Jill's own 10,000 circulation newsletter, The Icehouse Connection, will explain why the customers return time after time. Classes are offered in crafting dolls, santas, bears, branding, ribbon embroidery, stenciling, wearable art, and dozens of classes dealing with every aspect of quilt making.

The Icehouse originally sponsored a large, summer quilt show that grew into one of the best in Michigan. When the show outgrew The Icehouse facilities, it was turned over to the AuSable Quilt Guild and continues to be successful.

Each year in November, Jill teams up with other business owners in the Grayling downtown area to sponsor the annual "Christmas Walk," which has grown into a major community event.

Other annual events are the "Superbowl Sunday Sale," and special gourmet food tasting days.

"All of these events keep customers happy and positive, as well as the fun

The success of The Icehouse has allowed Dave, who still does some contract building work, to devote most of his time to assisting Jill. Several times each year they travel to quilt and gift-buying shows together.

When asked about future plans, Jill said, "To continue offering the best service to our friends, our customers. Always in the plans are new events offering fun and entertainment. And always, we give thanks to God for our success."

we have planning and organizing the event," Jill said. "One of the most popular special events is when Dave fixes crepes and pancakes for breakfast. He does it several times a year, outside in the summer and inside in the winter."

South Branch Fire Department working hard to update equipment & knowledge

By Linda Sherwood
Staff Writer

The South Branch Township Fire Department (SBFD) has been working hard this year to update its equipment and knowledge. The SBFD, started in 1976, is made up of entirely volunteer firefighters.

"It's hard work being a volunteer firefighter," said Fire Chief Mike Janisse. "There are a lot of new methods for doing things and the volunteers have to go through a lot of schooling."

Becoming a volunteer firefighter requires 124 hours of training to be completed within a year. Training hours grow even more when firefighters become emergency medical technicians (EMT) or paramedics. Classes in search and rescue, fire science, and how to handle chemical spills are just some of the requirements for training.

"Members are eager to train and get as much education as they can," said Janisse about the SBFD volunteers. There are 24 volunteers on the SBFD, including two paramedics, five EMT specialists, five EMTs, five medical first responders and two in training for EMT.

The fire department has also purchased a lot of equipment this year. They've purchased hoses, a generator, a 2,000 gallon portable tank and wild fire gear for every member.

"We're working well with the whole county to get standardized with equipment," said Janisse. "We can work hand in hand at fire scenes."

Besides the 124 hours of fire fighter training, more for medical training,

ON CALL FOR YOU — The South Branch Fire Department has been keeping busy this year. The department normally averages 30 fire calls a year, but this year they have already had 26 fire calls. Pictured is Fire Chief Mike Janisse.

the volunteers also put in time doing maintenance on trucks. A lot of the mechanical work is done in-house, which saves taxpayers money, said Janisse.

"Training alone makes a real demand on fire fighters," said Janisse. "To keep up with training now... I can't say enough about the fire fighters and their families."

Serving all of South Branch Township and AuSable Township in Roscommon County, the department has seven fire trucks and one basic ambulance. It averages about 30 fire calls a year, but has already had 26 calls this year.

"We have a lot of water on our trucks and relatively new equipment," said Janisse.

The department is working to put in "dry" hydrants, which are water tanks and fittings, at locations throughout the township enabling them to get water to the scenes quicker.

"It's hard to get volunteers because of training requirements," said Janisse. Anyone, man or woman, interested in becoming a volunteer fire fighter should contact their local fire department.

To help fire fighters locate the correct house and to prevent unnecessary delays, Janisse has a few suggestions for every Crawford County resident:

- Have large house numbers on the house and driveway.

- Make sure the driveway is wide enough for fire trucks. Janisse said they run into a lot of two-track trails that the fire trucks can't get down without damaging the trucks.

- Use lot-finder stickers on children's bedroom windows.

General Clinton kicks off Triple Crown

By Nick Stancil
Staff Writer

The 33rd General Clinton regatta, the first leg of the 1995 Triple Crown of North American Canoe Racing, was held Memorial Day, May 29, on New York's Susquehanna River.

The one-day, 70-mile non-stop race from Cooperstown, home of the Baseball Hall of Fame, to Bainbridge was won in the C-2 Pro Class by perennial canoe champions Serge Corbin of St. Boniface, Quebec and Solomon Carriere of Cumberland House, Saskatchewan in 8:06:51. In the C-1 Pro Class, local favorite Bill Torongo of Roscommon took first place with a 9:07:43 finishing time.

Corbin has won nearly 90 percent of the 50 major marathon canoe races that he has entered since the late 1970's. He has won all nine of the Triple Crown races and has swept every Triple Crown championship since the series began in 1992. In 1992 he teamed with Brett Stockton to take the championship and in 1993 and 1994 he took the series with Carriere. The record-setting team is back for 1995 and is again the Triple Crown favorite.

The Triple Crown of North American Canoe Racing uses a point system to name the top overall performances by the top canoe racing teams that compete in the three series races: The General Clinton Regatta, staged on Memorial Day Weekend, The Weyerhaeuser AuSable River Canoe Marathon, held on the AuSable River on July 29-30 and the La Classique de Canots de la Mauricie, held on Labor Day Weekend on central Quebec's St. Maurice River. This year, cash and prizes awarded in the series will total over $100,000.

Fans at the General Clinton Regatta were treated to a festive holiday weekend that included fireworks, carnival rides, an arts and craft show and a country music showdown. Throughout the weekend, canoeists participated in a variety of races for beginners, experienced canoeists, men, women, single paddlers and mixed teams.

There were 51 men's teams, one women's team and ten men's and women's teams.

The event drew nearly 500 spectators for the 6 a.m. and 8 a.m. starting times and a large group for the finish in Bainbridge. The weather throughout the race was erratic and changed quickly from hot and humid at times to very severe.

Other area teams that competed in the event were Jeff Kolka of Grayling and Bruce Barton of Homer who finished in sixth place with a time of 8:14:19; Jim and Mo Harwood of Grayling who finished 17th in 8:35:29; and Phil and Tom Trudgeon of Grayling who came in 36th place with 9:10:48. Joe Seifert and Jim Bassett of Grayling also participated in the event.

Sajdak starts car racing as 59 year-old rookie

By Linda Sherwood
Staff Writer

You're never too old to try something new. Clem Sajdak of Frederic, started street stock racing last year at Merritt Speedway in Lake City. He was known as the 59-year-old rookie.

Sajdak has won two races, once at Cherry Speedway in Fife Lake and last Saturday at Merritt Speedway.

"That was the best thrill of my life," said Sajdak about receiving the checkered flag. "Otherwise I've gotten seconds and thirds, on down but never last," said Sajdak. His son, Doug, has been racing in the street stock division for five years now. Clem went with him to Merritt every Saturday and helped Doug out in the pits.

Clem's first racing experience was 30 years ago when there was a race-track in Frederic. "I burned out two engines before I ever got on the track," said Sajdak. He gave up and didn't get on a race-track until 1994.

"I had a lot of help from a lot of friends," said Sajdak. "Johnny Hailing, an ex-racer, and his wife, Gail, let me use their garage to store my race car last summer and gave me tips," he said.

Racing isn't a cheap hobby or an easy one. It takes just seconds on the track to create an entire week of work in order to get the car back in shape for next week's race. When it comes time to turn wrenches, Sajdak has plenty of help. Gary Bryant, sons Doug and Randy, son-in-law Kevin Curtis, and nephew Greg Schmidt help him keep his car running and on the track.

"That (support) gives you a little incentive to do a little better," said Sajdak. "and feel good about it too."

Last year Sajdak raced in the same class as his son, Doug. "We raced side-by-side over there. He's better and more experienced," said Sajdak.

The father and son aren't competing as much this summer. Doug is racing Friday nights at Cherry Speedway, while Sajdak races Saturday nights at Merritt. Earlier this season Sajdak was trying to race Fridays at Cherry and Saturdays at Merritt, but a bad crash at Cherry caused him to miss a night of racing at Merritt. He couldn't get the car back together in less than 24 hours.

Sajdak says it runs about $100 a weekend to race. He does have sponsors helping him but they aren't easy to find.

"Every little bit helps," said Sajdak. His sponsors this season are CarQuest of Grayling, Abel Auto Parts, Advance Collision and Lamb's Machine Shop at Houghton Lake. "That's one thing a driver could use is sponsors," he said.

"My goal for life is to get one season," said Sajdak. "Everything's for sale in September. I wanted to test my reflexes."

"I've avoided hitting a lot of guys," said Sajdak. "Last Saturday a car spun out right in front of me. I avoided him by going into the infield, but the guy behind me T-boned him. Some of the younger guys don't look ahead."

Racers arrive at the track around 5 p.m. with the races beginning at 7:30 p.m. This gives them time to unload their cars, check their equipment, do a few hot laps and adjust their tire pressure. A driver's meeting is held before the races start, then the cars line up and the night begins. When special events are at the track, the races last well into the wee hours of the morning.

After the races are over, the drivers line up for their night's pay. Even if they didn't do very well they will at least receive a pit pass to use for the next week's race. Every little bit helps.

FIRST CHECKERED FLAG AT 60 — Clem Sajdak received his first checkered flag in the street stock division at Cherry Speedway in Fife Lake on Friday, May 19. Just a few weeks later, Clem picked up his second win at Merritt Speedway in Lake City. You can find Clem racing Saturday nights at Merritt Speedway.

Old partners reunite for cross-state canoe journey

By Nick Stancil
Staff Writer

Two retired canoe marathon racers completed a one-week paddling journey across the state reaching Manistee on Saturday, June 17 at 5 p.m. Ron Raynak and Robert Gillings canoeed from the shore of Lake Huron to the shore of Lake Michigan via the "Old Chippewa Indian Route."

The "Old Chippewa Indian Route" follows the AuSable River from Oscoda to Grayling where a portage must be made to Lake Margarethe (formerly known as Portage Lake) followed by a trip down Portage Creek until reaching the Manistee River.

The canoeists, both of whom are from Oscoda, began their adventure at 8 a.m. on Saturday, June 10 after picking up a letter from Oscoda Press Publisher J. Berkeley Smith to deliver to Manistee News-Advocate president John Batdorff.

The letter introduces Raynak and Gillings and invites the Manistee News-Advocate to cover the 48th running of the AuSable River Canoe Marathon on July 29-30.

Many would think that the most difficult leg of the journey would have been the 120 miles of upstream paddling against the river's current. But Gillings reported that the hardest part of the trip was the two mile portage from the AuSable to the Manistee. The battle upstream was slow-going, but Portage Creek was shallow and covered with logs and obstacles, said Gillings. "Once we reached the Manistee," said Gillings, "it was all down hill. It was nice going downstream."

"The weather was fine," said Gillings, "although it got a little warm near the end. The river was in good shape, but the water was low near Grayling and made it hard to paddle upstream."

The pair once paddled together in the AuSable River Canoe Marathon, paddling third at Mio when they had to pull out due to exhaustion.

Raynak has finished as high as sixth paddling with Oscoda's Stan Hall.

The late Jerry Wagner, a former race winner with Ralph Sawyer and Indian historian, prompted their interest in the cross-state trek.

"He always talked of the Old Indian Route," said Gillings, "and that got us interested in this trip."

"It was a challenge and we're both interested in old history," said Gillings. "We enjoy canoeing and that's what got us started."

The two have been good friends for some time and did not have to seriously train for the 300 mile trip, although they did paddle every once in a while to prepare.

Raynak is 54 and recently retired after a career as a structural iron worker. Gillings is 64 and also retired after a career as a construction and postal worker. No immediate plans have been made for a second journey.

Three Dog Night and America perform June 22 at Interlochen

Two singing duos — Three Dog Night and America — perform at Interlochen Center for the Arts Thursday, June 22, in Kresge Auditorium. Take a trip back in time as the groups present their smash hits from the 70s, which remain as popular today.

Tickets to the 8 p.m. performance range in price from $15.50 to $27.50 and are available by contacting the Interlochen Box Office at (616) 276-6230.

Three Dog Night has a long list of hits, topped by their gold records Joy to the World, Shambala, and An Old Fashioned Love Song. Ever since, fans worldwide have acclaimed their pop-rock sound and powerful harmonies as they continue to entertain audiences spanning generations. The current Three Dog Night line-up features founding members Cory Wells and Danny Hutton on lead vocals as well as original keyboardist Jimmy Greenspoon and Michael Allsup, lead guitar. Originally brought together by Hutton with the novel concept of showcasing lead singers who could also harmonize together, the group was enormously successful right from the start. Having met while touring with Sonny and Cher, Three Dog Night recorded the best new material from the best new songwriters and wound up with 14 gold albums, nine gold singles and have sold over 40 million records/tapes/CDs.

Sharing the spotlight in the evening's second half of the program will be America. Now in their 23rd year of performing, Gerry Beckley and Dewey Bunnell achieved international stardom with the hit record Horse With No Name. To their credit are a string of chart-dominating hits such as Sister Golden Hair, Ventura Highway, I Need You, and You Can Do Magic. All told, America has accumulated a total of 17 albums, establishing them as one of the most recognizable.

Traverse Symphony Orchestra to perform at Kirtland Center for the Performing Arts

The Traverse Symphony Orchestra will perform An American Pops Concert at Kirtland Center for the Performing Arts on Friday, June 30, and again on Saturday, July 1, to kick-off the long 4th-of-July weekend. Tickets for this family event are $15, $10, $6 and $3 for lawn seating.

The concert, under the direction of guest conductor Maestro Robert Hanson of the Elgin Symphony Orchestra, will spotlight American music, which appeals to concert goers of all ages. A local vocalist, selected by Maestro Hanson from a field of 16 contestants, will open the concert with The Star Spangled Banner. Featured on Friday, June 30, will be Marie Goodrich of Houghton Lake. On Saturday, July 1, Phyllis Anderson, also of Houghton Lake, will do the honors.

The evening's program is eclectic Americana. Included on the program will be Leonard Bernstein's overture to Candide, a lighthearted overture incorporating all of the best themes from the musical; Morton Gould's famous American Salute, winner of the 1995 Pulitzer Prize in music; Bob Lowden's arrangement of Disney Magic, including Zip-a-dee-doo-dah, Candle on the Water, Chim Chim Cher-ee, A Dream Is a Wish Your Heart Makes and It's a Small World. John Williams' theme from Jurassic Park; Bob Lowden's arrangement of the Armed Forces Salute, an arrangement of all of the service songs put together into one piece; and John Philip Sousa's The Stars and Stripes Forever, now officially our nation's national march.

The highlight of the evening will be Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture. This piece has come to symbolize freedom the world over. From the opening string chord to the closing sounds of the canons and bells, this work celebrates the freedom that is America. Pyrotechnic canons surrounding the tent will fire at precise moments to augment the full sound of the orchestra. A fireworks display over the college (weather permitting) will put the final cap on this event for the entire family. Bring a picnic basket and enjoy dinner before the performance on one of the college's many lawns (alcohol is not permitted on the Kirtland Community College campus). Containers of any kind will not be permitted into the tent area. Concessions are available at a reasonable price on the concert grounds. Plenty of free parking with easy access to I-75 is available. Gates open at 6:30 p.m. The college proper is open all day.

For ticket information, or if you would like to make a reservation, contact the Kirtland Ticket Office at 517-275-5121, extension 225.

Kirtland Center for the Performing Arts receives performing arts touring fund grants

Kirtland Center for the Performing Arts announced recently that it was among a select group of Midwest presenters chosen to receive 1995-96 Arts Midwest Performing Arts Touring Fund grants. This award will support upcoming performances including Fairmount Theatre of the Deaf's production of Mark Medoff's drama exploring the bitter sweet relationship between a man and a hearing-impaired woman, Children of a Lesser God, on Sept. 30. The National Theatre of the Deaf's production of Eugene Labiche and Marc-Michel's critically-acclaimed, side-splitting French farce, An Italian Straw Hat, on Feb. 10, 1996, and The Acting Company's production of George Bernard Shaw's comedy dealing with war and manners, Arms and the Man, on March 3, 1996, in the Gilbert I. Stewart Auditorium on the campus of Kirtland Community College. The artists will be available either before or after the performances to discuss the art of performing in what is essentially a bilingual cast, with members of the audience.

In striving to serve the needs of an ever broader-based audience, Kirtland Center for the Performing Arts has arranged to present three very different theatrical performances as part of its 1995-96 offerings. Children of a Lesser God is the play on which the movie by the same name is based. A moving drama, it explores the relationship between a man and a woman in both the hearing and hearing-impaired worlds. Completely accessible to either a hearing or hearing-impaired audience, it is the first play to successfully integrate hearing and hearing-impaired performers seamlessly on the same stage.

An Italian Straw Hat is touted as "a tour de farce," and has collected as many good reviews as good laughs. The company tours with a 1-man orchestra and an 18-foot Eiffel Tower. The plot revolves around a young man whose horse eats a ladies' chapeau and the zaniness that follows. The performance will be presented in the company's signature style, a combination of sign language and spoken words. The show is for all audiences, deaf and hearing.

The Acting Company returns on the heels of last season's success, Othello, with George Bernard Shaw's captivating comedy, Arms and the Man. A prosaic Swiss mercenary flees the battlefield to find refuge in the bedchamber of an idealistic young woman of 23. A charming and thought-provoking play that balances humor with Shaw's distinctive sting as it comments on traditional romantic notions of war. Kirtland Center for the Performing Arts' grant awards totaled just over $10,400.

Hunting & Fishing Weekly Update

THE HEX FLIES, caddis flies, or the giant Michigan May flies, whatever you choose to call them, seems to be going on, at least in the upper AuSable, and will soon be all over the place in all this heat. There has been a huge brown drake hatch on the upper Manistee, and I mean huge flies, almost as large as hex flies.

The bluegill fishing is great right now. You can get them with flies or bait if you choose.

If you are so inclined, the smallmouth bass are in up at Wilderness State Park. This can be great fun. You can wade, or put in a small boat and follow the islands out. Fish around them with live bait, rubber crawlers, or even flies.
